CHEVENNE, WY., October 23.-The following is given by General Crook: "All arrangements, as far as possible, are completed for the removal of the Sioux at Spotted-Tail and Red-Cloud to their temporary locations. Captain Wessels, with two companies of the Third cavalry, and all the Indians of the Red-Cloud agency, will leave Thursday for a place on the White river, about forty miles from the Missouri river. Captain Lawson, with two companies of the same regiment, and the Indians at the Spotted-Tail agency, will leave there on the same day for the Ponca reserva-tion, in the northern part of Nebraska, at the mouth of the Nebraska river, where they will remain until spring. The Arrapahoes, who are to move to the vicinity of the Shoshne reservation, are expected to start the same day." General Crook anticipates no trouble whatever. Unless a large force of United States troops, accompanied with Gatling guns and authority, restore order, fears are entertained that the mob will gut the stores, provide themselves with good clothes, stove-pipe hats, and indi-cations of prosperity. There are quite a number of stores there that contain large and carefully selected stocks of goods, that would just take with a mob. I have it officially that raiders from Mexico operated in Texas every full moon, excepting two or three, for the last three years. These raids are usually accompanied by loss of life, and always loss of property. While on this subject I may mention that the Mexican local authorities have invariably excused themselves for not extraditing these Indians by saying they were not to be found. It is a little singular that Lieutenant Bullis, with his limited facilities, should be able to strike heir camp, which was within a few miles of the town of Zaragossa. It is true the Indians got news of his coming to see them, and they (the Indians) went right straight into the town of Zaragosa, the alcade of which is one of those Mexicans who is so which is one of those Mexicans who is so guided by the position taken up by a majority eplorably ignorant of the whereabouts of the deputies.
